FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Author Conor Grennan at Wilton Library March 8

Wilton, CT – Not many people take time off to seek adventure only to find a story so compelling that it need be shared with the rest of the world. Such is the case with unlikely author and Connecticut resident Conor Grennan who will tell his tale of the orphaned children of Nepal when he comes to Wilton Library on Tuesday, March 8, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. In his book, Little Princes, Grennan reveals that the three months of volunteering he sought out at the Little Princes Children's Home in war-torn Nepal, was quite eye-opening. Once he discovered that the children were not orphans, but rather trafficked commodities ripped from their homes and abandoned, he set up an organization that works to reconnect the displaced children with their families.

In 2006, Grennan founded Next Generation Nepal, a non-profit organization that is devoted to bringing the aggrieved families back together. The charity has reconnected almost 300 families with the children they feared were lost to them forever.

Publishers Weekly notes about Little Princes, "Grennan's work is by turns self-pokingly humorous, exciting, and inspiring." Copies of the book will be available for purchase and signing. Registration is strongly recommended. There is no charge for the program. For information, directions or registration, visit www.wiltonlibrary.org or call (203) 762-3950, ext. 213. Wilton Library is located at 137 Old Ridgefield Road in the heart of Wilton Center.
